1. SITUATION

Who are we? What has happened?

Civil war

Following the break-up of Yugoslavia in 1991, and fighting between Serbs and Croats in Croatia, a civil war erupted in the new Republic of Bosnia-Herzegovina.

Bosnia had a mixed population of Muslims, Serbs and Croats. In 1992, the Bosnian Serbs attacked their neighbors, seizing large tracts of land which they then 'ethnically cleansed' of non-Serbs.

Ethnic cleansing

As the war went on, the Croats and Muslims also carried out ethnic cleansing. An estimated 2 million people were driven from their homes.

In September 1992, the United Nations (UN) authorized the deployment in Bosnia of a 'Protection Force', UNPROFOR. This was tasked with protecting the aid convoys run throughout the region by the United Nations High Commission for Refugees. LRG is part of UNPROFOR (INDP FORCES)

Violence spreads

Within months of their arrival, the British found themselves in the middle of a vicious war-within-a-war as Croats and Muslims turned on each other, while also fighting the Serbs.

Mine Warning!

After the first part of the operation the Armed Forces of the Republic Srpska got pushed back further north, this gave the TOS (Territorial Defense Forces) forces room to push in and take the villages which were in the independent safety corridor provided by the UN.

Rapports claim massive numbers of bodies on the street. Muslim men are hiding in the dense forests trapped between the 2 hostile armies.
